

Article/Write-up - My Bootcamp Journey at Espire!

August 8'2022 it was when I stepped on to Espire, Gurgaon, since then I am a part of this corporate world where I met with both ups and downs. Started with the opening speech of our very respected Deepti Jain, others from our HR team, training team, etc. introduced themselves. Talking about the freshers, we had an intro session one by one. I stood up nervous, walked towards introducing myself, had lots of things in mind to say but I ended up saying couple of lines. The first week of bootcamp training must be impeccable of this entire journey, from games to mimics, from musical chair to quiz and what not, that time might never come back, how relaxed we used to be. I remember I did mimicry of one of my colleagues and was gifted a token. The HR team is supportive and encouraging as we have seen saying since we joined bootcamp. Our training manager Lipi who always motivated us no matter how we are, how we speak. Her soft skills sessions were helpful, so many things we learnt. Initially I used to feel nervous but in sometime I managed to speak up, open up which gradually showed me the milestone. Initially Anuj sir, our assistant training manager seemed to be hard but eventually I think, we all understood none could be more understanding, more supportive than him. I would never forget to mention how he did take care of little to little things, his last and first statement would always been "If you face any challenges, let me know.", this constant support in any situation be it related to your leaves, wfhs or assignments or trainings he had shown. Talking of our BU2 bootcamp manager, so grounded, so realistic and disciplined Gurudeo Singh who have always been quite cooperative, whenever we had SME connect he with so much patience would come and wait for all the trainees to show up one by one, seen their work, ask questions, giving positive feedback and appreciating our hard work. He always heard our problems whenever any of us need urgent leave or wfh. The first sql training started with a bulk of trainees after an evaluation we got bifurcated into groups. However, I got my name in Java and our java bootcamp training started from 26th Aug, Prasad sir trained us from core to advanced, he must have lot of patience till the end with so much tolerance he would never raise his voice, always appreciated our work, shared the code, write code with his own hands and explained us like college kids. He never loose his calm even if we break any of the terms, he made us understood every bit of it, evaluated us and kept explaining until we are crystal clear. He was friendly with us, I enjoyed his sessions. Sometimes in between Manish sir would show up and our heartbeats would raise, he always tried to clear our concepts where we lack at utmost. Last I would end up by saying that I don't know about others and I don't think what others think, but as Lipi maam says "less is more" so at espire bootcamp journey was a roller coaster with many goods and bads.
